Just a quick note. I have made copies of a sampling of what we have. Most documents are too fragile to photocopy from this time period.

I reviewed an account book we have of Seth Case – he was a leather maker – and one of his customers for a saddle was David Thomas, Jr. of Granby.

JOHN CASE

John Case was born in Aylesham, England. His date of birth is unknown but estimated to be about 1616 by his descendants. Originally John settled in Windsor and lived there until 1669 when he "removed" to the "Weatogue" area of Simsbury. He married Sarah Spencer, daughter of William and Agnes Spencer of Hartford, CT prior to 1658 and they had 10 children. Five of them were born in Windsor and five in Simsbury. Sarah died in 1691 at the age of 55 and John remarried Elizabeth Moore Loomis, widow of Nathaniel Loomis, with whom he had no issue.

The General Court appointed John Constable for Massacoh Oct. 14, 1669. He represented Simsbury at the General Court in 1670 and several times afterwards.

His children were:

1. Elizabeth b 1658 (Windsor) d. 9 Oct 1718 m. Joseph Lewis

2. Mary b 22 June 1660 (Windsor) d. 22 Aug 1725 m. (1) William Alderman and (2) James Hilliard

3. John, Jr. b.5 Nov 1662 (Windsor) d. 22 May 1733 (Simsbury)m. (1) Mary Olcott 12 Sept 1684 (2) Sarah Holcomb 1693

A BRIEF ACCOUNT

OF THE

LIFE OF JOHN CASSE.

Numerous traditions recorded by families descended from the above John Casse land him at Newport, R. I., between 1630 and 1640. The only direct evidence known to the writer is from Drake's "Founders of New England," which says:

"The ship 'Dorset,' John Flower, master, sailed from Gravesend, Eng., Sept. 3d, 1635, for the Bomodes (Bermudas). Among the passengers was Mr. Casse, aged 19."

It may be said here that this spelling of Casse only appears in the above ship record, and in a power of attorney given in 1656 by John Casse, and witnessed by his brother, Thomas Casse. A copy of this paper will be found farther on. John's will is signed Case, and so we will call him. John's age at death in 1704 is not known, and much inquiry and research fail to show it. If found to correspond with that of the emigrant in the ship Dorset, it would seem certain that it was our John who then landed.

Mr. Willard E. Case, of Auburn, N. Y., thinks that the Dorset man was William Case, who settled in Newport, R. I., was a Freeman in 1665, and member of General Assemby in 1675, who died about 1681. But I think it was John. In John's will, made in 1700, he describes himself as "well stricken in years and drawing grave-ward." If he was the Dorset passenger, it would make him 88 at his death in 1704.

Some family traditions say he lived in Newport a few years. Savage says he was in New London in 1656, and moved to Windsor the next year. But up to this year his history has been a perfect blank from 1635 to 1656, a period of twenty-one years.

It was reserved for Miss Charlotte Case, of Wethersfield, Conn., to find in the State records at Hartford the conveyance of six parcels of land by John Case to William Gibbines in February, 1640. As the lands were in the vicinity of Hartford, it tends to show him a resident there, and of an age to convey land. One was "a building lot of two roods;" one of "one acre lying in Hockanum;" one of "two and twenty acres on this side of Rocki Hill;" one of "nyne acres on the road leading to the great swamp;" one of "fower acres of swamp abutting on the great river, and on the west by land yt did belong to the Indians;" "one psill of meadow of three acres by the dead swamp on the west."

The next record evidence of John is the following power of attorney given at Maspeth Kills (now Newtown, L. I.), in which he describes himself as "now inhabiting." Maspeth is now a postoffice just over the Brooklyn city line. As before stated, this was, up to 1898, the first record evidence of

John in America, the first of his marriage, and the first of the one he married; and as wedding journeys were not in vogue at that time, it is fair to assume that he was "now inhabiting" at Maspeth Kills:

"To his Loving F Father, William Edwards, living at Hartford in New England, this present.

"The above written is a true Coppie of an original writing, Recorded this 10th Aprill, 1657, By Mee. JOHN CULLICK, Secry."

An unsigned addition on the margin of the paper authorizes Mr. Edwards to collect "whatsoever debts shall be found owing unto me from any other men."

This seems to make it probable that both John Case and his wife had resided in Hartford, and that they were married there. When they were married is not known.

From other sources we learn that he married Sarah Spencer, daughter of William and Agnes Spencer, who were among the first settlers at Hartford. Sarah was born in 1636, and they were probably married in 1656. Sarah's father, William, died in 1640, and in 1645 his widow married William Edwards, also one of Hartford's first settlers. Mr. Edwards thus became the step-father of Sarah Spencer, who married John Case, and thus became John's attorney. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards had but one child, Richard, born 1647. Richard became the grandfather of the famous preacher and writer, Jonathan Edwards, born 1703. I think some of the early Cases may have been indoctrinated by their distant relative.

From 1656 John's life becomes better known. But, before proceeding with it, we will say a few words about things at Maspeth Kills.

The Newtown, L. I., records show that John had two brothers there—Thomas, who is a witness on John's power of attorney, and William. All we know of William is that he died 1727 and left all of his estate in "Martin's Vineyard" to his five daughters; and that his son William inherited the estate of his uncle Thomas. Thomas was said to have come from Fairfield, Conn. He is said to have been married about 1659, and to have died 1692. He had no children.

In the tax roll of Newtown, 1675, "Thom: Case" has 20 acres meadow, 1 horse, 2 oxen, 4 cows, 4 young cattle, 20 sheep and 3 hogs. He was a noted and persistent Quaker, well-known and well-hated on the north shore of Long Island and the south shore of Connecticut. Dr. Increase Mather thus speaks of him in 1681:

"There went down about a moneth since three mad Quakers, called Thomas Case's crew, one man named Denham, belonging to Newer-Snicks, and two women with him belonging to Oyster Bay; these went down to South-hold, where they meet with Samuel Banks of Fairfield, the most blasphemous villain that ever was known in those parts. These joining together with some other inhabitants of South-hold of the same spirit, there went into their company a young merchant named Thomas Harris, who was somewhat inclining to the Quakers before (he belonged to Boston); they all go about him and fell a-dancing and singing, according to their diabolical manner."

Trumbull's History of Connecticut tells of "one Case and one Banks, two lewd men, called singing Quakers, coming through the Colony, singing and dancing, accompanied with a number of women to assist them in their musical exercises, and especially to proclaim how their lips dropped with myrrh and honey."

How long John had lived in Maspeth Kills (Newtown) no one knows. But in 1656 or '57 he joined the new colony of Windsor, on the Connecticut river, eight or nine miles above Hartford, at the mouth of Farmington river. We know but little about his residence there, except that his first five children were born there. As early as 1648 the Windsor colony had informal deeds from the Indians of lands on the Farmington river, known as Massacoe, now Simsbury. In 1664 a few settlements were made, and in 1667 the first grant of land there was made to John Case and twenty others. In the spring of 1669 thirteen of these grantees moved to Massacoe. Their names were Thomas Barber, John Case, Samuel Filley, Joseph Phelps, John Griffin, Michael Humphrey, Joshua Holcomb, Thomas Maskell, Luke Hill, Samuel Pinney, John Buell, Peter Buell, Joseph Skinner.

In 1670 the colony asked for town privlleges and sent John Case and Joshua Holcomb to the May session of General Court. The delegates were seated as members, and the request granted as follows:

"This Court grants Massacoe's bounds shall run from Farmington bounds to the northward tenn miles, and from Windsor bounds on the east, to run westward tenn miles; provided it doe not prejudice any former grant. The Court orders that the plantation at Massacoe be called Simsbury."

It was ordered by the town in June, 1674, "that all the inhabitants of Simsbury, from fourteen years old to sixty, shall next Monday sennight stub bushes." This was to clear the roads, and was all that was done for roads for nearly fifty years.

John Case settled in the south part of the town, then, and now, known as Weatogue. He was appointed by the General Assembly as Constable for Massacoe in October, 1669, being the first officer in the new town. In 1670 he represented the town in the General Assembly, and also in '74, '75 and '91.

King Philip's Indian war drove the new settlers from their homes in March, 1676. In August, 1665, the Colonial Council ordered a night watch on every plantation, and all males from 16 to 70 to take part in it. The town of Windsor was ordered to send four men every other day to clear the road to Simsbury. The Indians had been turbulent for over a year, and in 1675 the County of Hartford raised 100 dragoons (seven from Simsbury) to protect the colonies, and the different settlements were

In 1664 a few settlements were made, and in 1667 the first grant of land there was made to John Case and twenty others. In the spring of 1669 thirteen of these grantees moved to Massacoe. Their names were Thomas Barber, John Case, Samuel Filley, Joseph Phelps, John Griffin, Michael Humphrey, Joshua Holcomb, Thomas Maskell, Luke Hill, Samuel Pinney, John Buell, Peter Buell, Joseph Skinner.

In 1670 the colony asked for town privlleges and sent John Case and Joshua Holcomb to the May session of General Court. The delegates were seated as members, and the request granted as follows:

"This Court grants Massacoe's bounds shall run from Farmington bounds to the northward tenn miles, and from Windsor bounds on the east, to run westward tenn miles; provided it doe not prejudice any former grant. The Court orders that the plantation at Massacoe be called Simsbury."

It was ordered by the town in June, 1674, "that all the inhabitants of Simsbury, from fourteen years old to sixty, shall next Monday sennight stub bushes." This was to clear the roads, and was all that was done for roads for nearly fifty years.

John Case settled in the south part of the town, then, and now, known as Weatogue. He was appointed by the General Assembly as Constable for Massacoe in October, 1669, being the first officer in the new town. In 1670 he represented the town in the General Assembly, and also in '74, '75 and '91.

King Philip's Indian war drove the new settlers from their homes in March, 1676. In August, 1665, the Colonial Council ordered a night watch on every plantation, and all males from 16 to 70 to take part in it. The town of Windsor was ordered to send four men every other day to clear the road to Simsbury. The Indians had been turbulent for over a year, and in 1675 the County of Hartford raised 100 dragoons (seven from Simsbury) to protect the colonies, and the different settlements were ordered to fortify their houses and keep arms and ammunition on hand. The Simsbury people took their movable things to their old homes in Windsor and Hartford, but all of their houses and much of their effects were burned by the Indians. A few returned in the spring of 1677, and many never went back.

The settlement was at a standstill for ten years, and had no representative at the General Assembly from 1675 to 1687, nor were they taxed until 1689. Willard E. Case thinks that John Case visited his brother Thomas, at Maspeth Kills, during King Philip's war.

In 1671 the town had voted to build a meeting house, had made a contract for the same, and the timbers were ready in 1674. But there was such a quarrel over its location that nine years were spent in fighting it out. Finally it was decided by "At a solemn meeting on May 24th, 1683--Whereas, there is two papers put into ye hatt, one east, and ye other for ye west side of ye River (Farmington), for ye decision of ye two places formerly nominated.

It is now agreed that ye first paper that is drawn shall be the lott--this voted. T lott that came forth was for ye west side of ye River."

The building was then erected, being 24x28, with 14-foot posts, but left unfinished until 1685, when a floor was put in, seats furnished and a pulpit built. In 1696 it was ceiled, and windows and a gallery put in. The first settled pastor was Edward Thompson, with a salary of fifty pounds per annum, "payable in good and current pay, to wit, one-third in good and merchantable wheat at four shillings per bushel, and one-third in Indian corn or pork, the corn at two shillings sixpenc per bushel, and the pork at three pounds ten shillings the barrel."

At an ordination in 1697 the following were among the articles furnished: Half a lamb of mutton, 2s. 6d.; butter, sixpence per pound; four pounds of sugar, 2s. 6d.; half a bushel Indian meal, 1s. 3d. ; two fowls, 8d.; eighty-four pounds of beef, 15s.; thirty pounds venison, 3s. 9d.; nineteen pounds of pork, 4s. 9d.; nine pounds of mutton, 2s.; two gills of rum, 9d. Reduced to present currency, beef was three cents a pound, mutton three and a half cents, and venison two cents.

In 1679 John Terry and John Case petitioned the General Assembly to prosecute those to whom house lots had been granted and who had failed to build on them as agreed. Fourteen were so prosecuted and fined. In 1683 there were 32 voters in the town.

These are the meagre surroundings of old John's life that have come down to us. We only know that he was an active participant in all the public affairs of Simsbur as long as he lived--active in the church, in politics, in society. He was evident man of strong character and influence. He acquired a large property for that time. It is difficult for those of this luxurious period to realize the life of toil and privation in a border colony of Connecticut 230 years ago. It was worse than Klondike, for there was no gold in the soil. But the Puritan character, with its grim, unyielding perseverance, was peculiarly adapted to the trials of an unknown world. What a pity that the modern peripatetic photographer cannot visit that remote region and bring us views of its log huts, stumpy fields and dark forests. What a pity that old John had no kodac in the house, with which he could leave us a picture of his grim, determined face and stalwart form. I think he must have been a hard man to manage. And as his inventory showed him possessed of a shot-gun, a musket, three pounds of powder, eight and a half pounds of lead, a rapier, a back-sword and a cutlass, he must have been well prepared to be belligerent. It needed a tremendous will power to make a will of eight finely-written foolscap pages. This brings us to the closing scenes of John Case's life. His wife, Sarah Spencer Case, died in 1691, aged 55. A few years later he married Elizabeth, widow of Nathaniel Loomis, of Windsor. Elizabeth died at Windsor in 1728, aged 90. Finally, in February, 1704, with his ten children all married and settled around him, his end came. We have no record at all of the last ten years of his life, except as indicated in his will. He is supposed to be burie the old cemetery at Simsbury, by the side of his first wife, Sarah Spencer; but the is no stone or record to prove it. Sarah's grave is marked with a red sandstone sl with record on it, probably erected by John. It seems strange that with ten children surviving, all of mature age, that his grave should have been left unmarked.

The old homestead was held in succession by direct descendants until 1869, when it was sold by Harvey B Case, a descendant of Bartholomew Case, to E. C. Stacy. Mr. Harvey E. Case (now dead) informed the writer that no part of the old house remained. The place has recently come into the possession of F. P. Dodge, of New York City, and converted into an elegant summer residence. His will, made in 1700, is a lengthy document, filling eight foolscap pages with fine writing. His first bequest is to "my well-beloved wife, Elizabeth Case, the full and just summ o five pounds in good and current pay of the country annually, as was engaged before marriage."

Elizabeth seems to have made a sure thing of it. The inventory appended to the will shows him possessed of seventeen parcels of land, a corn mill and a saw mill. The lands and personal property were divided up among his sons and daughters. A codocil to his will, made in 1704, just before his death, revoked the former gift of the homestead to his youngest son Joseph, "because he has declined his due respects service from me in this time of distress and sickness, contrary to my expectation and agreement." Joseph must have been a bad boy (then 30), and that must have been the reason why he was afterwards sent to the General Assembly for twenty sessions. Legislatures have been crowded with bad boys ever since. Of the annuity to his wife Elizabeth, fifteen shillings each was to be paid his sons William, Samuel, Richard and Bartholomew, and two pounds by his son Joseph.

There are many curious items in John's inventory. Among them are: "A Broadcloth Coat, a Kersey Coat, a home-made cloth coat, a woolen cloth coat, Table linen and Napkins, Blue Trucking cloth sheets, Linen sheets, tow sheets, Bibles and Divinity books, a Short gun, a muskett, 3 lbs. powder, 8 ® lbs. lead, a Rapier, a back-sword, a cutlash, 6 ® bls. Cyder, 2 Stocks Beer, 160 pd tobacco, 2 pr.breeches, tow breeches, beding, feather bedd, bolster, 2 pillows, sha rug, green rugg, wainscot bedstead, new coverlid, old coverlid, one more coverlid, 21 ® yds. linsy woolsey, 26 yards tow cloth, 9 yards linen cloth, 22 runn of linin yarn, 10 ® runn of Tow yarn, pewter platters, pewter flagon, a great brass Kettle, 2 little brass Kettles, Chambers pott, warming pan, Smoothing Iron, a pair Stilliards. cheese press, &c." This curious inventory is attached to will, and covers three finely-written foolscap pages. It is footed as 562:S05:01

The administrators of the will are:

"My beloved and trusty friends, viz., my brother, Samuel Spencer, of Hartford, and my son, John Case, of Simsbury." The will is signed thus:

"The mark I. C. of John Case, Senr." The witnesses are: John Slater, Clerk; William Gillett, Elias Slater.

From the form of John's signature, the inference is that he could not write.

It is still an open question if John Case had another brother. The only evidence known to the writer is that presented in Phelps' " History of Simsbury," as compiled from private and public records in Windsor: "Richard Case resided at East Hartford, and afterwards, it is supposed, removed to Simsbury, though this is uncertain. His wife was Elizabeth, daughter of John Purchase, one of the first settlers of Hartford. Richard died in 1694. His children were Richard, John and Mary. He is supposed to have been a brother of John Case. Mary married Joseph Phelps."

It may be noted that the names of Richard's children all appear in John's family. also appears that Joseph Phelps' second wife was Sarah, daughter of John Case, and his third wife was Mary, daughter of Richard Case. We know nothing more of Richard or his family. To get an idea of how these early settlers spread themselves it is only necessary to read that twenty-five leading Simsbury families (eight of whom were Cases) had 218 children, 115 males and 103 females.

Joseph Mills, Richard Case, Samuel Barber and Isaac Messinger, living near each other, had 40 sons, 39 of whom lived to manhood.

Rose Terry Cook tells a humorous story of several pages in Harper's Magazine for April, 1875, showing the modern prevalence of old families in the Simsbury region.

Its title is "The Widow Case." A young Hartford lawyer takes the cars for Albany, through the Case corner of Connecticut. An old couple get on at Pekin (Canton), bound for Canaan, and when they get off they drop a photo of "Widow Case," showing a young and very attractive face. The lawyer picks it up and falls in love with it.
On his way back he stops at Pekin, and asks his landlord if there is a Widow Case there. "Bless you," he says, "there ain't much here but Cases and Humphreys." Then the hunt begins, and he finds Widow Cases of all ages and conditions. The search continues for some months before a widow who matches the picture is found--and married, of course.

We have record of ten marriages of Cases to Holcombs, eleven to Phelps, forty-two to Humphreys. Numerous other marriages occurred with Enos, Pettibones, Mills, Barbers and others, and seventy-two to other Cases-and these are but a small part of the list. The Cases seem to have been fond of each other.

Some idea of the early life of Simsbury may be had from the following items in the town records:

In 1746 it was "Voted, that the standing committee cause the drum to be beat on Sabbath days, to notify ye parish when to begin meeting."

In March, 1696, the Selectmen issued the following order, "Elizabeth, wife of James Mills, you being now resident at your son's, John Matson's, these presents are to warrant you and admonish you to depart out of the bounds and limits of the township of Simsbury forthwith, as you will answer to the contrary, and you may not any longer reside here; and now do warn you to seek some other place for your residence, and pray you tak notice of this our warning who are the townesmen of Simsbury, In December, 1701, it was voted: "Whereas, the Towne of Simsbury being greatly damnified by Persons thrusting themselves into our Towne, which proves greatly to the Damage of the Towne; for ye prevention thereof, this towne do order therefore for the future: no Persons shall crowd and thrust themselves into our Towne to reside there above one month without liberty first obtained from the said towne or Townsmen upon the forfeiture of twenty shillings to the Towne."

"Sarah Slater was born February the sixth day, 1716, at 11 o'clock at night, and baptized the 10th day--the 16 day thare apeared an uper fore toot, the 19th day at one of the clok after noon it came quite out."

"On the 14th January, 1718, two men, Ephraim Buell and John Barber, his son-in-law, went to the West Mountain to hunt horses, where they perished. Their bodies were found and brought back on the 17th January."

In 1718 "The town agreed with Steven Pettibone to sweep the meeting house for 15 shillings, he likewise is to dig the graves, also to prepare and carry water to meeting house for the baptism of children."

"1719, Feb. 28th. The Town order and agree that John Drak shall make Coffins for our Towns people."

In January, 1725, the town voted to use all surplus town funds in teaching children to read and write.

In December, 1701, John Slater, Sen., was employed as school master for the town, at forty shillings a month. The school was to be kept for three months each, at the Plain and at Weatogue. He was "to teach such of said towne children as are sent, to read, writ, and to cypher, or to say the rules of Arithmetick as are capable and designed by their parents to learn Arithmatick."

In 1782 it was "Voted that the seaters shall dignify the pews and seats in this meeting house as they think fit."

In 1781, "Voted that the Society desire Mess'rs. Theodore Hillyer, Elisha Cornish, Jr., and Job Case, Jr., to assist in tuning the Psalms on Lord's days."

1784, "Voted to allow the singers as much of the front seats around the galleries as they shall want."

In 1741 " It was voted that any orthodox minister who has a right to preach the gospel, may upon the desire of a number of persons, with the consent of two of the Society's Committee, have liberty to preach in the meeting house on any day, not disturbing any other religious meeting." At a subsequent meeting "popish priests" were excluded from this license.

1773, April. "Voted to sing on the Lord's Day according to rules taught in singing schools in this and neighboring societies." But a new teacher brought in his choir on a Sunday and sang such a lively tune that Deacon Brewster Higley took his hat and left the house, shouting "Popery-popery!"

There seems to have been a stray Case at Southold, L. I. Henry Case appeared there in 1658, and that year married Martha, daughter of Thomas Corwin, of Southold. The same year he was granted a house lot there. He built on the lot and the house is still standing and bears the date of 1647, and is called one of the oldest houses on the Atlantic coast. But it certainly was not built until afte 1658. The tax list of Southold for 1675 has no Cases, but that of 1683 has Henry Case, 35, and Theopulos Case, 109. Henry had a son Theophilus. Hon. Joseph Wickham Case and his son, Alburton Case, both of Southold, and descendants of Henry Case, say that all attempts to connect their family with that of John Case, of Simsbury, have so far been unsuccessful.

The Cases of Orange county, N. Y., think they go back to Henry Case, of Southold. The founder of the Orange county colony was John Case, 1742-1819. He went from Long Island toOrange county before 1765.

The late Admiral Augustus Ludlow Case was a descendant of the above John.

Several Case family traditions say that some of the Cases who remained in Rhode Island changed their names to Casey. But the ancestors of the late Gen. Silas Casey brought their name with them direct from Ireland. Irish genealogy abounds with Casey, Casses, Casse, Case, Cassy, Casie--many of them having coats of arms with one common feature on the shield, a hand issuing from a cloud. And it may be mentioned here that in old Gaelic "casi" is '' hand." Perhaps this i the origin of the family name. The Casey family, who were lords of Saithue, County Dublin, were dispossessed and scattered by DeLacy in the Anglo-Norman invasion. In this family the name of Casse is used, and the given names of John, William, Thomas, Stephen often occur. In the list of foreign refugees who settled in England and Ireland during the reign of Louis XIV. of France (1643-1715), is the name of De la Case. Among the English Cases prominent were John, of Norfolk county, an Oxford scholar and author, died 1600. Thomas (son of George), of Kent, an Oxford scholar and famous London preacher, 1598-1682. John, 1660-1700, a noted doctor of London, mentioned several times in " The Tatler." At a dinner where he was present, some one pointed at the doctor and gave a toast, "To the fools, your patients." The doctor replied, "Give me the fools, and I'll gladly give you the rest of the practice." Thomas, of Westchester, was granted a coat of arms in 1599. Richard, James, John, Thomas, Jonathan, Henry were of an old Lancaster family. These names have occurred often at Simsbury. Among the coats of arms of English "Case" and "Casse " families are a winged globe surmounted with a dove, and an arm and hand grasping a sword; and a Westchester family, an arm and hand grasping a buckle. The late Charles T. Case, of Nashville, Tenn., a descendant of John Case, found among his family relics a copper plate die of a coat of arms to Harry Case; on the shield a unicorn head, surmounted by a swan. He did not know who Harry Case was or where or when he lived. But the entire Case family have managed to exist comfortably with such coats and arms as they have been blessed with.

To go back still farther into the dusty past, in 1887 the papers gave an account o an old Case castle on Case hill, near Belfast, Ireland, whose ruins some antiquarie wished to protect by a stone wall around them. When the job was done the antiquaries went to inspect it, and found that the contractor had used the stone of the castle for the wall, quite an Irish proceeding.

In that famous old book, "Le Morte D'Arthur," printed by Caxton in 1485, we find in Chapter 2 of Book II. an interesting story of "the Castle of Case." King Pelles, "king of the foreign country," was at his castle of Carbonek, near the city Corbin, and near the sea towards Ireland. (If you know where it was, I wish you would tell me.) King Pelles had for a guest Sir Launcelot, one of King Arthur's most famous Knights of the Round Table. King Pelles had a beautiful daughter named Elaine, but she was visiting at "the castle of Case." Sir Launcelot asked how far it was to the castle of Case, and they told him it was about five miles away. Then he determined to go there and see Elaine. He saw, and for the first time in his life was conquered. From their union sprang Sir Galahad, the knight par excellence, surpassing all other knights, even his noted father.

The above scraps and fragments of history and tradition have been gathered during many past years by the writer, a descendant of old John Case through his youngest son Joseph, and are now given as a possible stimulus and guide to future explorers. He desires to express his obligations to "Goodwin's Notes" and Phelps' "History of Simsbury," in historical matters; and especially to Mr. Willard E. Case, of Auburn, N. Y., for personal facts about John Case. Mr. Case has spent much time on old John's tracks in this country, and made two voyages to England, largely to locate John's English ancestors, but without success. And, as before mentioned, to Charlotte Case, of Wethersfield, whose patient research has given us sixteen years earlier record than we previously had. A study of the coat of arms issued to "Harry Case" may help to find the English origin of the family.

I give below a brief list of John's children and grandchildren, merely for a start point in the history of the family:

1.Elizabeth 1658-1718
2.Mary 1660-1725
3.John 1662-1733
4.William 1665-1700
5.Samuel 1667-1725
6.Richard 1669-1746
7.Bartholomew 1670-1725
8.Joseph 1674-1748
9.Sarah 1676-1704
10.Abigail 1682-....

1.Elizabeth--Married, 1st, Joseph Lewis; 2d, John Tuller. She had eight children.
2.Mary--Married, 1st, William Alderman; 2d James Hillyer. She had seven children.
3.John Case, Jr.--Married, 1st, Mary, daughter of Thos. Olcott, of Hartford, Conn.; 2d, Sarah, daughterof Joshua Holcomb, of Simsbury. He had seven children. His sons were John, Daniel, Jonathan.
4.William Case--Married Elizabeth, daughter of Joshua Holcomb. He had seven children. His sons were William, James, Joshua.
5.Samuel Case--Married, 1st, Mary, daughter of Jonah Westover, of Simsbury; 2d, Elizabeth, widow of Samuel Thrall, and daughter of Josiah Owen, of Windso He had thirteen children. His sons were Samuel, Nathaniel, Jonah, Caleb, Azr Benjamin, Pelatiah.
6.Richard Case--Married Amy, daughter of Dr. Philip Reed, of Concord, Mass. He had eight children. His sons were Richard, Timothy, Edward.
7.Bartholomew Case--Married Mary, daughter of Lient. Samuel Humphrey. He had nine children. His sons were Thomas, Amos, Isaac, Abraham. He lived on the old homestead at Weatogue.
8.Joseph Case--Married Anna, daughter of James Eno, of Windsor. He had eight children. His sons were Joseph, Jacob, Benajah, Josiah, Hezekiah, Davi Joel, and a son who died an infant.
9.Sarah Case--Married Joseph Phelps, Jr., of Simsbury. She was his 2d wife, the 1st being a daughter of Joseph Collier, of Hartford. Sarah had two c Sarah, Damaris. Joseph Phelps, Jr.'s 3d wife was Mary, daughter of Ri
10.Abigail Case--Married Joseph Westover, Jr. She had four children.

So old John's family of ten children had increased to eighty-three. Of the sons, John, Jr., was a member of the General Assembly ten sessions, Richard one, and Joseph twenty.

My own line of descent is from John's youngest son Joseph:

1. Joseph, Jr. 1790-1782; married Hannah, born 1701, daughter of Deacon John Humphrey.

2. Asahel. 1729-1809; married Dorothy Phelps, 1735-1816, daughter of Amos Phelps and Sarah Pettibone.

Asahel moved from Simsbury to Norfolk, Ct., about 1759.

3. Asahel, Jr., 1756-1840; married Eunice Everett, 1755-1833, daughter of Seth Everett and Eunice Miner, of Woodbury. Ct.

4. Salmon, 1784-1871; married Maria Pierson,1799-1885, daughter of Benjamin Pierson and Polly Peck.

Salmon moved from Hartford, Ct., to Vernon, N. Y., in 1813.

5. A. Pierson Case,1818; married Lovina W., daughter of William Coburn and Abigail Hotchkiss, of Homer, N. Y.

6. Charles Salmon Case, 1846;, married Mary, daughter of Cornelius H. and Margaret Rhoddy Webster, of Binghamton, N. Y.

VERNON, N. Y., March 22, 1898.

Just how long it did supply the neighborhood with these necessaries is not now known. (1)

Captain Carpenter died in 1814. On the evening of September 9, a little more than thirteen years after his settlement in the township, he was returning from the town of Delaware on horseback. The horse on which he was mounted was a very vicious one, and, having left town late, night overtook him before he reached home. He could not see the road, and his horse did not want to follow it. Winding along the river, it passed between the bank and a tree that stood very near to it. An overhanging limb swept him from the horse, and, being so near the brink, he fell down the precipice upon the rocks below. He rose up on his hands and uttered a solitary cry for help. The familiar voice attracted the attention of a neighbor near by, who came to his assistance. He immediately asked for water, which the man, with his hat for a cup, procured for him from the river. Dr. Lamb was soon at the scene of the accident, but his injuries were fatal, and he soon expired, thus ending, at the age of fifty-six, his eventful life. His death cast a cloud over the entire community; all were conscious that they had lost a friend. His family was devotedly attached to him; his physician and many friends wept at his grave, as they laid him by the side of his wife, who had died ten years before (1)

"Avery Power, His family came out toward fall of 1801, but he had been out the year before to explore the country and select a location." (1)

"Thomas and Avery Power accompanied Captain Carpenter to the West. They were neighbors in New York, and settled on adjoining farms to Carpenter in Liberty Township. Avery was one of the first County Commissioners, a position he filled with credit and satisfaction. He did not live many years, however, to enjoy his new home, but died some time previous to Capt. Carpenter. A son of his, Benjamin Power, served as President of the First National Bank of Delaware, an office he filled acceptably. Thomas Power served in the war of 1812, and was killed in the battle of the Thames, we believe." (1)

"Their story actually begins in the late 1790s in south central New York where talk of the new lands in the Northwest Territory filled the local taverns, general stores, and church yards. A group of men—[including] … Nathan Carpenter, Avery Power and his sons, Avery, Jr. and Thomas …" (2)

"Much like today, this enterprising group had an advance man, developer, surveyor, real estate agent, speculators, and a corps of laborers. Avery Power—who was the first settler of Norwich, N. Y., in 1788—was the advance man, coming to Liberty Township, Delaware County, Ohio a couple of years before settlement to find the best land to purchase within the U. S. Military District." (2)

Power had woods-smarts and was perfectly suited for his job. When he saw the Whetstone River [now Olentangy River], with its swift moving feeder streams, he knew mills could supply lumber and flour for their new settlement. He picked out two tracts by the river, found out who owned them, and returned home. (2)

Avery Power and Thomas accompanied Captain Carpenter to the West. They were neighbors in New York and settled on adjoining farms to Carpenter's. Avery became one of the first County Commissioners. It is said he filled this position with credit and satisfaction.

Today, the Carpenter lands and graves are located on Marycrest Farms on Chapman Road along the east bank of the Olentangy River in Liberty Township. (2)

Eleanor's grandmother and my great grandmother were sisters

"After the close of the war Mr. Carpenter lived in Connecticut until 1795, when he moved to New York, and purchased a large estate upon the Unadilla River. It was while residing here that the excitement over the Ohio Territory rose to a height exceeded only by that perhaps over California in later years. Public meetings were hold, at which were discussed the stories of its delightful climate and inexhaustible wealth. Never having become attached to the country which he had adopted as his home, he was inclined to share in the enthusiasm." (1)

One morning, after having ascended to the roof of his house to shovel off the snow, he told his wife that he intended to leave that land of hills and snow banks go to the wonderful Ohio. Having disposed of his estate and other effects which he would not need, and, having procured everything required in his future home, he bade farewell to his numerous friends, who had gathered to say farewell, and started for the new adventure on February 12, 1801. About twenty young men (Powers, Smiths, etc.) who were going out to see the country, and some of whom afterward became permanent settlers, accompanied him. He traveled on wagons and sleds as far as Pittsburgh, where he loaded his effects and passengers into a boat and continued his journey by floating down the Ohio River. The beginning of his journey down the Ohio placed the little party beyond civilized limits, and brought it a foretaste of the privations and luxuries of pioneer life. He traveled only by day, the boat being made fast to shore at night; but shortly after leaving Pittsburgh, some of the passengers became anxious to travel at night also, and Capt. Carpenter finally acceded to their wishes. The boat started out, but did not proceed far before it struck an obstruction which were then common in the Ohio River, and crushed in the bow. The hold was rapidly filling with water, when the break was stopped and the water was kept out, until the boat could be run ashore and all on board rescued. A day was spent in repairing the damage, when they again proceeded on their journey with light hearts and buoyant spirits. Marietta was left behind and the boat arrived safely at the mouth of the Scioto River. But here a change must be made; in order to reach his destination, the Scioto River must be ascended." (1)

"Accordingly, the cargo and passengers were transferred to keel-boats, in which they were moved up to Franklinton, a place consisting of three or four log houses, and situated across the river from where Columbus now stands. Here a large canoe was procured, and his goods transported up the Olentangy to the place where he arrived on May 1, 1801, having been two months and eighteen days on the voyage." (1)

According to the deed for the tract of land where Carpenter settled he purchased 520 acres for $1,500 or $2.885 an acre. The tract was located in the United States Military Lands—Range 19, Township 4 and Sections 3 and 4. James Glover of Norwich, Chenango County, New York deeded the 520 acres to Nathan Carpenter who was from Oxford, Chenango County, New York. The deed was dated December 13, 1800. (8).

Robert Roy Lacher, age 94 of Lewis Center, died at his home early Wednesday morning, February 9, 2005.

He was born in Delaware, Ohio on February 26, 1910 to the late Alice (Demarest) and George Lacher. Lacher, the former owner of Lacher Electric, served as a medical technician with the Americal Division at Guadalcanal, New Caledonia, and the Fiji Islands during WWII. He was a 1929 graduate of Powell High School and earned a B.A. degree from The Ohio State University. Lacher was an Orange Township volunteer fireman for many years and a long-time member of the Liberty Presbyterian Church, serving as Elder and Trustee.

He is survived by his wife of 60 years, Florobel (Carpenter); a son, Robert S. (Marie) Lacher, Galena; two daughters, Alice Lee Lacher (Robert Meyer), Galena, and Rosemary Lacher, Lisbon; former son-in-law, James Lybarger, Salem; grandchildren, Benjamin Lybarger (Lisa Donnalley), Bethany Lacher, Andrew Meyer, Stephanie Meyer (Peter Adongo); great-grandchildren, Florabel Adongo, Cindy and Jimmy Robertson; two brothers, James, Yalaha, FL, and George (Ruth), Lewis Center; and a sister, Eleanor (Roger) Hawk, Delaware.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Harold, in 1981.

A memorial service will be held at the Orange Road Evangelical Friends Church, 3467 E. Orange Road, on Saturday at 11:30 a.m. with Pastor Chris Jackson officiating. Relatives and friends will be received by the family at the church one hour prior to the service. Arrangements are in the care of DeVore-Snyder Funeral Home, Delaware.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Orange Road Evangelical Friends Church, 3467 E. Orange Rd., Lewis Center, Ohio 43035, or Hospice at Grady Hospital, 561 W. Central Ave., Delaware, Ohio 43015.

Invt. œ603-06-08. Taken 23 June, 1746, by Jacob Reed, Michael Humphrey and Azariah Wilcocks. Will dated 18 April, 1740.
I, Richard Case of Simsbury, in the County of Hartford, do make this my last will and testament: I give to my wife Amy 1-2 of my homelott and orchard, that is, 1-2 of my tract of land that my house and barn stand upon. I give her the use of sd. homelott during her life, after my decease, with the use of the whole house and barn, for her use and profit during the term of her natural life; and also give to her 1-3 part of my moveable estate. I give unto my son Timothy 1-2 of the forementioned homelott where my house and barn stand upon, after my decease, and the other half with the house and barn I give to my son Timothy after the decease of his mother, my wife Amy, to him and to his heirs forever. I also give unto my son Timothy all my lands that belong unto me whereon he now lives, except 40 rods on the north side through the sd. lott and one mile in length, which I reserve for my son Edward. I also give unto him, his heirs and assigns forever, 1-2 of my woodlott against Hazel Meadow, provided he pay his double part to my daughters with my two other sons Edward and Richard, provided my daughters have not their portion paid out of the moveables; or if I leave not moveables enough for their legacies or portions. I give unto my son Richard all the remaining part of that lott of land upon Chesnut Hill where he now lives (that part which now belongs unto me), I give it unto him after my decease, provided he pay 1-4 part of that which is wanting in my moveables in my daughters' portions. I give unto my son Edward the remaining part of that lott by my son Timothy, which is on the north side, 40 rods in width and one mile in length, taking in that piece of land that I have bought of Amos Case and Isaac Case. I also give unto him and his heirs and assigns forever, after my decease. a certain tract or piece of land lying upon Calf's Tongue Brook, where my old barn was. Furthermore, I give unto my son Edward the 1-2 of that aforesd. woodlott lying against Hazel Meadow, to him and his heirs forever, provided he pays 1-4 part of what is wanting in my moveable estate to make up my daughters' portions which I shall give them. I give unto my daughter Amy œ30 besides what she has already had, to be paid unto her out of my moveable estate. I give unto my other three daughters, Margaret, Lydia and Mary, œ40 to each of them, to be paid out of my moveable estate. I appoint my wife Amy and son Timothy to be executors.
Witness: Samuel Pettebone, Hepzibah Pettebone, Benajah Case.

John Case[1,2,3,4,5,6] (M)
b. 1616, d. 21 Feb 1703/4

John Case was born in 1616 at Aylesham, England.[7] He married Sarah Spencer, daughter of William Spencer and Agnes Harris, circa 1657. John Case married Elizabeth Moore. John Case died on 21 February 1703/4 at Simsbury, Hartford Co., CT.
He left a will on 21 November 1700.

"It is interesting to speculate about who John Case was on the basis of what we know. Although there is no age recorded anywhere for John, it is likely that he was not much older than Sarah, who was born in Boston in 1635, and that he was a resident of Hartford during the time prior to his marriage. It also seems probable that he came from a good family for it is unlikely that he would have had the opportunity to know Sarah, much less marry her, if he himself did not have a comparable background. Most parents in early New England were very careful about their daughters associations and it was generally necessary for a young man to secure the permission of a girl's parents prior to courting her. This concept was firmly embodied in New england law, which made it a crime punishable by a fine for a young man to see a girl without first obtaining her parents' consent. It is also apparent that John had traveled widely in southern New England and had either lived at or visited both Maspeth Kills, near Brooklyn on Long Island, and Hartford, Connecticut, by 1656." - Charles Case

He resided in Windsor until spring of 1669, when he settled at Weatogue (Simsbury). His house in Windsor, (probably build by a former owner) was on the corner of Mill highway and Bloomfield Ave; lot ext. on ave. about 33 rods an d14 on Mill road. His lot "whereon his house standeth" had not been recorded before 1669. "It was first gn. to Benj. Newberry, now Captain, and hath been possessed by several men before." He sold his house and lot and shop to Nath. Cook, 1689. He was the first constable of Massacoe (now Simsbury) CT, in 1669 and represented the town several times at General Court.

John's will named his wife, Elizabeth, six sons and four daughters. Samuel Spencer of Hartford and John Case, his son, were executors.

The Alderman Genealogy is more specific about John's early years: "John sailed from Gravesend, England, on September 3, 1635, on the ship Dorset and landed at Newport, R.I., but settled in Windsor, Conn. He was a farmer and owner of large acreages of land. He spend some years in Newton on Long Island, but in 1656 he returned to Connecticut and 1667 settled in Simsbury, formerly known as Masaco."

JOHN CASE

John Case was born in Aylesham, England. His date of birth is unknown but estimated to be about 1616 by his descendants. Originally John settled in Windsor and lived there until 1669 when he "removed" to the "Weatogue" area of Simsbury. He married Sarah Spencer, daughter of William and Agnes Spencer of Hartford, CT prior to 1658 and they had 10 children. Five of them were born in Windsor and five in Simsbury. Sarah died in 1691 at the age of 55 and John remarried Elizabeth Moore Loomis, widow of Nathaniel Loomis, with whom he had no issue.

The General Court appointed John Constable for Massacoh Oct. 14, 1669. He represented Simsbury at the General Court in 1670 and several times afterwards.

His children were:

John and Sarah CASE family tree

RICHARD CASE [#84], d. East Hartford, CT 30 Mar 1694, m. ELIZABETH PURCHASE (dau. of John Purchase and Jane).

Richard Case was not as early a settler at Hartford as many others, but he did live there by the 1660's. He removed from there to East Hartford in 1669 where he was made freeman in 1671.[1] Richard Case was perhaps a brother to Henry, John, Thomas, and William, although no document has yet been discovered to prove such. Richard and John were both residents of Hartford County and all pertinent names in the first two generations of Richard's family reappear in John's. Richard married Elizabeth Purchase, daughter of John Purchase, an early settler of Hartford, as noted in John Winthrop's medical journal for the year 1663. This marriage is further proven by Richard Case's receipting to Nicholas Palmer for Palmer's daughter-in-law (i.e step daughter), Elizabeth Purchase, dated 17 Dec 1663. On 1 May 1675 the said Nicholas Palmer made further payments in land to Richard Case in accordance with promises which he had made to his (Palmer's) wife Joan at their marriage.[6/14:157] The marriage of Nikolas Palmer to Jane Purkas is recorded at Hartford on 29 Oct 1646. Her first husband, John Purchase, died in Hartford in 1645 leaving widow Joan and daughters Mary and Elizabeth. The older daughter married Jerrett Speck who also receipted to Nicholas Palmer on behalf of his wife, the date being 26 Nov 1663.[5]

Richard Case was appointed town crier of Wethersfield, CT on 22 Mar 1666-7, and on 17 Feb 1669-70 he bought land from William Edwards.[5] Richard died at East Hartford on 30 Mar 1694, leaving a will dated 8 Sep 1690 in which he describes himself as of Hartford and names his wife Elizabeth, her father Purchase, and three minor children, Richard, John, and Mary. He also willed that his wife Elizabeth and "kinsman" Thomas Olcott to be executors. The court appointed Thomas Olcott and Mr. William Pitkin, Jr. overseers to assist the widow by their advice in April 1694. Inventory taken on the estate 2 Apr 1694 amounted to 203.2.6.[7] Thomas Olcott was born in London. His mother was Margaret Charlfount, who also emigrated to Connecticut, and his sister was Mary, wife of Robert Hardy.[9] No definitive connection has yet been found with Richard Case.

The following story about Richard's daughter Mary, although she is not an ancestor, is included to provide the flavor of the times and to show that former generations had their faults just like we. An added benefit of its inclusion is that it will no doubt be enjoyed by the soap opera fans among the readers. At a session of the Hartford County Court on 18 Jun 1695, Lt. Col. John Allyn, Mr. Nathaniel Stanly, and Capt. Jacob Stanly presiding is the following record: "Mary Case of Hartford complayned of Daniel Eames late of boxford for begetting her with child whoe being examined the sayd Eames & Mary Case both in court acknowledged that they had committed folly together sometime in January last by which the sayd Mary Case is with child as she sayeth & that sayd Daniels wickedness is aggravated in that he had a wife of his owne at that time he committed that folly. We seize & sentence him the sayd Daniel Eames to be severely whipt upon the naked body on Wednesday immediately after the Lecture And the sayd Mary Case for her committing fornication with the sayd Eames whoe is a marryed person & his wife now Liveing we doe sentence her to pay a fine of six pounds or be severely whipt on the naked body as soon as she shall be in a capacity to receive her punishment & we doe order the sayd Eames to depart the colony forthwith & to return to his wife & famaly as the law requires". Whether Mary could raise the fine and avoid the whipping is unknown, but it is doubtful. At a town meeting in Hartford 17 Jan 1695-6 we find that "The State of Mary Case being presented to the Consideration of the town by the townsmen and of their Exspence of ten shillings in Cash for the said Mary her Releife the Town doe order yt the townsmen Shall Enquire into her Estate and wt her mother will doe towards her maintenance and if she refuseth to Contribute theirto, they are to make report theirof to the authority". The child, Kezia, must have been born in September or October of 1695 and she was baptized at the Hartford First Church on 1 Mar 1695-6. The name of the father was not stated.[8/292]

Daniel Eames, the son of Robert and Rebecca (Blake) Eames, was born 7 Apr 1663 and married in Andover, MA 15 Apr 1683 to Lydia Wheeler. They had seven children born in Boxford, MA between 1684 and 1693. Daniel then deserted his wife and disappeared from the Boxford records making it likely that he did not return to his wife after his punishment.[8/293]

this is an interesting story about Mary Case and her "folly" with Daniel Eames.

Hi Tommy:

While searching the web for info on the Case Family I found your web site. I have about a couple hundred page of info on the Case family in Liberty Township, Delaware County, Ohio where they moved in the early 1800's. They were descendants of your John Case and Sarah Spencer.

One interesting piece of info is:

I have a document (which has the pages numbered up to page 125 pages with 35 pages missing) by a Mrs. Hess entitled "The Case Family". My copy of this document starts with John Case b. circa 1616 and continues to the 12th generation with Watson Case b. June 8, 1781 the 5th generation and he married Sylvia Case whose gr, gr, gr grandfather was the same John Case b. 1616. So, they were distant cousins.

Besides the above I have maps of Liberty Township showing the Cases who owned property at different times, interment records in Delaware County and cemetery burials records in Liberty Township written by Judi Brozek.

Sarah Elizabeth Case Williams a gr, gr, gr, gr granddaughter of you John Case is my maternal great grandmother.

I cannot afford to give the info to you but can copy it for you for payment of my time to copy, copying cost and postage if you would like to receive it.

William Alderman died at Simsbury in 1697. Mary Case died there also date unknown. Both are buried there (Huxford Genealogical Society, Inc. Magazine, Leola Settle, Editor, Volume XIX, Number 4, page 298).

BIOGRAPHY: William Alderman died in 1697, leaving a considerable landed estate to his widow who married second Serj. James Hillyer in 1698. William Alderman is shown in the records of Farmington, Windsor, Hartford, and Simsbury, Connecticut as an extensive holder of real estate. These are documented on 15 Dec 1687, 24 Dec 1685, 29 Dec 1687, 21 May 1688, 25 Aug 1689, 21 Dec 1696. William Alderman was born about 1640, married Mary Case (b. 22 Jun 1660 in Massachusetts died 22 Aug 1725 in Connecticut.) on 22 Jun 1679 in Simsbury, Connecticut and had son Thomas Alderman born 11 Jan 1683 or 9 Jun 1683. William Alderman died in 1697 in Farmington, Connecticut. The estate was not settled until after 1720 (THE ALDERMANS IN AMERICA).

WIFE NOTES:

BIOGRAPHY: Mary Case was the daughter of John Case and Sarah Spencer. Sarah Spencer was the daughter of Honorable William Spencer. William Spencer's wife was Agnes Tucker. William Spencer's father was Gerrard Spencer (christened in 1576 in England). Gerrard Spencer came to America in 1632 bringing his 5 sons, which included William Spencer. Gerrard was the son of Michael Spencer. Michael Spencer's father was John Spencer, born in 1568 (was in Stratford, England in 1576) and was married to Ann Gerrard. She was the daughter of Sir William Gerrard, the Lord Mayor of London in 1555. William Spencer returned to England in 1633 and brought back his wife Agnes Tucker on the ship Marie and John. He was a member of the First House of Representatives in 1634 and served until 1638. The will of Mary Hillyer, of Simsbury, Connecticut, dated 12 Aug 1725.

She left to her 3 sons, William Alderman, Jr., John Alderman, and Joseph Alderman my lands. The first is a piece of pine land on the west side of the river given me by my father John Case, the other is 5 acres of marsh land lying under West Mountain, all of my moveable estate except my wearing apparel I give to my daughter Elizabeth Hillyer. I appoint my son John Alderman as my executor. Inventory taken shows £23 11s and 7p, the reason Thomas Alderman was not mentioned was because he died in 1715 (THE ALDERMANS IN AMERICA).

Roster of the 16th Connecticut Regiment, Volunteer Infantry

The following roster of the 16th Connecticut is presented by Scott W. Holmes, 16th Connecticut Regimental Historian for the Civil War Plymouth Pilgrims Descendants Society. Your comments, additions, and corrections are welcomed! If you are a descendant of a veteran of the 16th Connecticut, or seek further information regarding the 16th Connecticut, please send an E-Mail to Scott at SHolmes54@aol.com.

Brief History of the 16th Connecticut ... or go directly to the roster.

The 16th Connecticut was formed in Hartford County, Connecticut, in July and August 1862. It was mustered into service August 24, 1862 and became part of Mr. Lincoln's Army of the Potomac. Three weeks later the regiment first saw action at the Battle of Antietam, Maryland as part of Burnside's Ninth Army Corps. Having loaded muskets for the first time only the day before the battle, the regiment suffered significant casualties at Antietam. It next saw action at Fredericksburg, Virginia in December 1862, then at the Siege of Suffolk, Virginia in April/May 1863. In 1864, the 16th Connecticut, then with the 18th Army Corps, was part of the Union garrison at Plymouth, North Carolina, and vigorously defended Plymouth against a Confederate combined land and naval attack April 17-20, 1864 led by General Robert F. Hoke, C.S.A. Outnumbered more than 5 to 1, with no means of escape or opportunity for reinforcements, the Union garrison at Plymouth was surrendered on April 20, 1864 by Brigadier General Henry W. Wessells. These Union soldiers at Plymouth were known as the "Plymouth Pilgrims".

Captured officers were then sent to various prisons while the enlisted men and non-commissioned officers went to Andersonville. At the same time as the attack on Plymouth, General U. S. Grant put an end to prisoners-of-war exchanges. This action resulted in long periods of incarceration for prisoners on both sides. Considering the poor conditions in the Confederacy, a large percentage of the enlisted men and non-commissioned officers captured at Plymouth died in prison of disease and starvation over a period of many, many months. Several hundred of the 16th Connecticut died under these horrible conditions. The regiment was mustered out of service on June 24, 1865.

More information on the Battle of the Plymouth and other regiments involved in the defense of Plymouth can be found at the site for the Civil War Plymouth Pilgrims Descendants Society.

There is a William Case In the 1788 Tithables for Cox's Station Militia. Also, the dates listed are questionable. Jacob could not have been born in Ky in 1750:
From: Nelson County Tithable Lists-1788
the list of thithables(taxes) were taken according to Militia companies until the formation of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in 1792. The Nelson County court minutes of June 10, 1788 directs 17 people to take tithables in 19 assigned militia companies for 1788, of which, one was David Cox, of Cox's Station, 5 miles north of Bardstown.
Listed were:
Jacob Case--1(indicates no dependant)
James Case--1
William Case-1
William Case, Sr. (2 Indicates John Case as minor still in William Case Household)

The Union Land Company & The Case Family

The Union Land Company deeds for the land were executed from James Kilbourne to the 26 men who agreed to "partition of said tract of land to each [one] his due …". The 4,000 acres were originally divided into forty 100-acre lots. The partition deed was filed in Deed Book A, Pages 274 to 276 in the Delaware County Recorders Office on January 9, 1806. Each member of the Union Company purchased their lots for $2.00 an acre. (1)

The Company was organized by Kilbourne, the founder of Worthington, in Connecticut on January 6, 1806. This land company included twenty-six (26) men who purchased the 4,000 acre Section four (4) of the United States Military Lands (USML) in Liberty Township, Delaware County. James Kilbourne had purchased the land for $7,000 in 1805 from James Parker. (2, 10)

Five men from the Case family who were members of the Union Land Company purchase 950 acres of land. They were Seth Case (300 acres), George Case (150 acres), Silas Case (200 acres), Jonathan Case, Jr. (200 acres) and Ambrose Case (100 acres). Jonathan Case, Jr. died in 1806 and his land was assigned to his heirs with Roswell Tuller, his attorney, handling his affairs. (1)

Seth Case and George Case were brothers and were Revolutionary War veterans. Although the USML were established to provide land for veterans of the War the two brothers did not claim their bounty land from the provisions of this Congressional Act. (3, 4, 5)

The Revolutionary War record for Seth Case and George Case is recorded in Official Roster III, Soldiers of the American Revolution who lived in the State of Ohio on Page 68 as follows:

> Seth Case—Delaware County: Born 1749, Simsbury, Conn; died 1820; buried on farm on which he settled on the west bank of the Olentangy River, north of Powell Rd,. Liberty Twp., Delaware Co., Ohio. Served in Capt. Mills' Co., Conn. State Troops, Enlisted Sept. 15, discharged Sept. 3 rd. Married Eunice Tuller in Simsbury, Conn. Had brother , Revolutionary Soldier, George Case. Soldier purchased 3000 acres of land North of his brother's land on west bank of Olentangy River. 56 th NSDAR Report. (13)
> George Case—Delaware County. Born March 4, 1759 Conn., Died Feb 19, 1834, buried in a field east of Powell, Ohio, Liberty Township, Delaware County, Private Connecticut Militia. Came from Simsbury, Conn. To his farm on west bank of Olentangy River, south of Powell Rd. Circa 1806. Married Electa Moore. One daughter, Electa, married Nathan Carpenter son of Capt. Nathan Carpenter, Revolutionary

Soldier and first settler of Liberty Township, Delaware County, Ohio. Delaware Historical Society replaced his stone in 1954. 56 th NSDAR Report. (13)

The Case family came from a long line of Cases, who helped to establish the Town of Simsbury, Hartford County, Connecticut in the early 1600's where they became large land holders. (11)

Lemuel Gordon Humphrey[1,2] (M)
b. 05 May 1766, d. 16 Jun 1823

Lemuel Gordon Humphrey was born on 5 May 1766 at Canton, Hartford Co., CT.[1] He was the son of Samuel Humphrey Jr.. Lemuel Gordon Humphrey married Dorcas Case, daughter of Isaac Case Jr. and Dorcas Moses, on 10 March 1788 at Hartford Co., CT.[1] Lemuel Gordon Humphrey died on 16 June 1823 at Delaware Co., OH, at age 57.[1]

The house in which Lemuel was born is still standing (1884). He and Dorcas resided in West Simsbury, Ct. Lemuel was represented by James Kilbourn in the Scioto Company partition August 11, 1804; he was one of the original 38 members of that company.[3] In the year 1807, he, with his wife and family of seven children, removed to Ohio and settled in the wild forest, on the dividing lands between the Olentangy and Scioto rivers, and on the old Indian trail leading from Lake Erie on the north to the Ohio river on the south, near the now south line of Liberty Township, Delaware County. Mrs. Laura Clark used to tell her children how the Indians would come to the cabin and ask her father to smoke the pipe of peace with them. The younger members of the family were much terrified at their appearance as they sat before the fire.

Mr. Humphrey was a leading citizen in the county; was for many years a Justice of the Peace, and held many positions of trust and honor. He and his wife were members of the Protestant Episcopal Church and regular attendants upon its communion at Worthngton, seven miles from their residence. He died on his homestead. Writes his only surviving child (1883), Mrs. Sarah Wilson, of Iowa City, Iowa: "I think, from what I can remember and from what mother has told us, that he was very patient, kind and good. He died with lingering consumption. I was quite young and cannot remember very much, only the death-bed scene--it was so calm. They raised him up and he sang the hymn through commencing, --

'Lord, what a feeble piece Our life how poor a trifle 'tis
Is this our mortal frame, That scarce deserves a name."

He was a good singer and a good Christian; and so passed away one of the best of earth. They went into the back-woods and endured the hardships and disadvantages of pioneer life, with very few privileges and little society. Their children were all baptized in their infancy and educated in the Protestant Episcopal Church."

Their grandson, Mr. Russell C. Hall, of Lewis Center, O., adds these observations: --"Among all the grandchildren there is not, nor ever has been, one that became addicted to the use of intoxicating drinks. But in the communities where they live they are known as positive temperance men and women, and always ready to take advance ground in all movements to build it up in society. In the late war, I know of thirteen that were soldiers in the Union Army, not counting Uncle Aaron's family. In politics, of the nine families, all were whigs and abolitionists, and then republicans, except one daughter's family who have been and are democrats. In religion, every family, with the same exception, has furnished active workers in the Church and Sabbath-School. In education, all of our aunts, at some time, were teachers in the public schools, and each family of grandchildren has furnished one or more teachers for our common and higher grade of schools, and I have never known of one that did not succeed." Oak Coves Path 0.5 miles Asphalt surface is good for hiking, biking, jogging and rollerblading. The trail is ADA accessible. It passes meadows and playfields, and connects with the Dripping Rock Trail.

Metro Parks

Established in 1945, Metro Parks features 14 outstanding natural area parks and protects more than 22,000 acres of land and water in seven Central Ohio counties. Metro Parks offers free educational and recreational opportunities every day of the year that will excite your senses and rekindle your spirit.

Metro Parks is a separate political subdivision of the state of Ohio organized under Ohio Revised Code, Section 1545. Setting Metro Parks' policy and directing the course of the park district is a three-citizen Board of Park Commissioners appointed to three year terms by the Judge of the Probate Court of Franklin County.

The tremendous growth and enduring popularity of Metro Parks is due to the strong support of the community - as voters, as volunteers and as visitors. Each year more than 5 million people escape from the hustle of their everyday world to enjoy the Metro Parks.

For more information about your Metro Parks, call 614.891.0700 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, or Metro Parks' InfoLine at 614.508.8000, or log on to www.metroparks.net.

Mission Statement

The Mission of Metro Parks is to conserve open spaces, while providing places and opportunities that encourage people to discover and experience nature.

HIGHBANKS comprises 1,150 acres of mixed habitat, including mature deciduous forest, fields, wetlands, ponds and the Olentangy State Scenic River. The name Highbanks comes from the 100-foot shale bluffs overlooking the Olentangy River. Many park visitors enjoy hiking the 2.3-mile Overlook Trail which leads to an observation deck and a scenic view from the high banks.

Highbanks is known for its fascinating geology. The exposed bedrock at Highbanks is Ohio shale, a sedimentary rock formed 350 million years ago when Ohio was covered by a sea.

Concretions, a unique feature of the Ohio shale, are rocks that form around an organic object in the shale. In one concretion found at Highbanks, the lower jawbone of a prehistoric fossil fish was discovered. Visitors can see a life-size replica of the fish and its skull at the Highbanks Nature Center.

The Ohio shale bluffs reach over a hundred feet high and give Highbanks its name.

Highbanks is also rich in Native American history. The park contains two Adena Indian burial mounds and a prehistoric earthwork. The earthwork is a 1,500-foot horseshoe-shaped earth embankment with a surrounding moat. Archaeologists believe that the earthwork may have been used as a fortification since it is surrounded by ravines and 100-foot shale banks. The earthwork lies within a 206-acre plot which is dedicated both as Edward F. Hutchins Nature Preserve and a National Natural Landmark.

In addition to Native American cultural history, Highbanks contains evidence of other cultures, including settlers' gravestones, a barn and sites of former residents.

Activities

Hiking: Highbanks has approximately 10 miles of hiking trails that can be accessed from the Oak Coves and Big Meadows picnic areas and the nature center (see Trails panel and map).

Picnicking: There are two large picnic areas. Each has picnic tables, grills, playground equipment, horseshoe courts, and shelters available on a first-come, first-served basis at no charge. Two shelters, the Northern and Mansion shelters, can be reserved. To reserve these shelters, call 614.508.8111 (TTY: 614.895.6240). All picnic areas are wheelchair accessible.

Programs: Regularly scheduled natural and cultural history programs are available to the public. A listing is published in Metro Parks' free quarterly magazine, Parkscope, available at the nature center or bulletin boards, and on our website (www.metroparks.net).

Group Walks: A naturalist is available to present programs or lead natural and cultural history walks for organized groups at prescheduled times. For more information on this park service, call 614.891.0700 (TTY: 614.895.6240).

Cross-country Skiing: Cross-country skiing is permitted on the primitive trail/cross-country ski trail, accessible from the nature center parking lot, when ski conditions allow.

Canoeing: Canoeing is permitted in the Olentangy River. Contact a ranger for access points.

Sledding: A sledding hill is located in the Big Meadows picnic area.

Fishing: Fishing is permitted along the Olentangy River at all public access points and is subject to all state regulations.

Nature Center: Exhibits in the nature center feature the park's natural and cultural history. The fully accessible center houses a library/resource room, children's learning area, multipurpose room, restrooms, ranger station and naturalists' office. A boardwalk on the rear of the building leads to an observation deck that connects to the nature trail. The center opens at noon on weekdays and 10 a.m. on weekends; closing times vary with sunset.

Educational Study Site and Streamside Study Site: Organized groups can reserve these areas at no charge. Call 614.846.9924

HANNAH MORITEY (FISHER) CASE

The Isrealites they prayed for bread
And the Lord sent them manna.
Titus Case prayed for a wife
And the Devil sent him Hannah.

So goes the poem about Hannah Moritey (Fisher) Case that first caused me to give special attention to my great-great-grandmother. The first time I heard this story about her, it was said that she was a difficult, abrasive woman, who was so disliked by the neighbors who used her well for their water supply, that one of those neighbors composed the poem and wrote it on the well wall. A later story, perhaps less intriguing, said that the poem was written by her father-in-law, George Case, because she had quite a temper. If the latter is true, probably it is an example of the sense of humor in the Case and Bartholomew families. What is your interpretation of the tale?

Hannah was born in New Jersey in 1799 to Sarah Ann (Bruen) and Isaac Fisher. Isaac had lived in Bergen and in Sussex Counties in New Jersey. His grandfather, Peter Fisher, born 1695 and married to Catherine van Duese, had emigrated from Wurtenberg, Germany, to New Jersey. Isaac and Sarah Ann (nickname Sally Ann) married in 1784; and eleven children were born to them, one of whom was Hannah The family moved to Knox County, Ohio; then to what became known as the old Fisher farm in the present county of Franklin. The farm was located on the River Road near the Olentangy River, two and a half miles northwest of the town of Worthington. On 12 February 1808 town records say that at "a general meeting of citizens of Worthington and vicinity for the purpose of collecting subscriptions toward erecting a statehouse in said town," Isaac Fisher subscribed $200 to be paid in land. Isaac was also active, and was an elder, in Liberty Church nearby. The Fishers were pioneers in the area because the first settlers had arrived in 1806, only two years before. Sarah died in 1829 when she was sixty years old. Soon afterwards Isaac moved on to Indiana. At least some of his children, however, remained in Ohio; and Hannah was one who stayed.

Hannah was evidently an intelligent woman because we know that she taught school. I have a copy of a certificate which she created for one of her pupils. It says, "This may certify that Mila Case is a diligent and dutiful Scholar has made good proficiency and is now at the head of her class, And is entitled to the approbation of her Preceptress. (signed) Hannah M. Fisher 1823." She would have been twenty-four years old at that time. At what age Hannah married

Timothy Titus Case is unknown. Titus was born in 1797 to George and Electa (Moore) Case, who were also pioneers in Deleware County, Liberty Township, Ohio. Titus was the minister in the same church near Powell where his father-in-law, Isaac Fisher, was an elder. I am not sure of the denomination of the church, perhaps Presbyterian.

Hannah and Titus had four children. Fredonia married Irwin Thurston and died in childbirth before 1855. Elizabeth A. (nickname Lib) was born in 1830 and died in 1901. She married Augustus C. Elsbree and had two sons. The third child, Miles Simon, my great-grandfather, was born 29 January 1832 and died in 1912. He married Emily Jane Bartholomew and had ten children. A second marriage produced no children. The fourth child, Caroline (nickname Cal), was born 12 August 1837 and died 28 May 1919. She married George Francis Elsbree, brother to Augustus. They had no children. When Miles and Emily Jane's second child, a girl, was born, Hannah, her grandmother, wanted the parents to name her Moritey. They did not like that name, but to honor Hannah they named the baby Mary Etta because it sounded somewhat like Moritey.

When we look at the records of the ancestors of Hannah Fisher and of Emily Jane Bartholomew, her daughter-in-law, we find that both were descendants of John Bruen Esquire who was born in 1560 at Stapleford, Cheshire, England. This was quite common in those days when the population was much smaller than now. The relationship was too far removed to cause genetic problems. It is interesting to note that this Bruen family has been traced back to a Robert Bruen who died before 1354. He lived in Cheshire County, England, near Tarvin, five miles east of Chester; and was heir to the estate, Bruen Stapleford, a grant made to the family in 1230. The name was originally Le Bruen (The Brown in French); undoubtedly a family who emigrated from France after the Normans conquered England in 1066.

Titus Case died 31 January 1860, sixty-three years old. In his will he left $500 to Caroline for "college purposes." Hannah "took to her bed," of what illness we do not know, and made her home with Caroline. On 31 January 1895 Cal's house caught fire and Hannah died in the fire. She is buried in the Liberty Church cemetery beside Titus, and this is on the tombstone:

Hanna M

Titus Case

August. 15, 1895

96 Ys.7 Ms.3 Ds.

The only other information I found about Hannah was that some of her Fisher relatives lived in Marion, Ohio, in 1935. Charles C. Fisher, the youngest son of Dr. Timothy Fisher, brother to Hannah, was a lawyer there. He was eighty years old and still went to his office every day.

When I began to learn all I could about Hannah, I thought that she was a unique woman, but not someone with whom I would like to spend much time. I have changed my mind. I have found that she and her family were more interesting than I had thought; that they were intelligent, caring, imaginative, fun-loving people that I wish I could enjoy now. Maybe my imagination is running wild, but maybe not!

him a wonderful painting of the school done by an Upper Arlington artist. Eugene Chase had family members who taught at the Bovee School, and he wrote a history of the school which we copied for our guest.

Richard took photographs at the Powell Road site and proceeded to investigate the source of the name given to the one-room school house. Soon thereafter, he mailed us a copy of the deed from the Estate of Isaac Bovee, showing John M. Williams as the purchaser of 103 acres in 1858. Bovee was John's brother-in-law. Now I feel like the historical society has learned something new! (Who among our readers knows that there is a Bovee Lane in the Powell Place development?)

Richard Converse is a name you might have heard before. He worked very hard to obtain an Ohio Historical Marker to recognize his great-great-great-grandfather, Anson Williams, and the Village of Williamsville in Orange Township. His research and determination paid off last May when the marker was dedicated.

Family names, like Case and Williams, are familiar to me as I discover more about local history. I confess I will probably never keep them clear in my mind because there are so many!

Several years ago, a column featured the Case brothers, skilled carpenters in this area in the late 1800s and early 1900s. Earlier this year, I wrote about Bonnie Hanley visiting Powell from Canton, Ohio, in search of information on her grandfather, George C. Williams.

Recently, Florida resident Richard Converse has been researching his ancestors, in particular the Seth Case family and the George M. Williams family.

Seth Case was among the 26 men who purchased land in Liberty Township for $2 per acre in 1806. The men were part of the Union Land Co., which was organized by James Kilbourne of Connecticut. Founder of what is now the city of Worthington, Kilbourne was a successful land owner and purchased three 4,000-acre sections -- one of which was in the southern part of Liberty Township -- of U.S. Military Land. Local researcher Kenneth Poling states that bounty land warrants weren't assignable following the Revolutionary War, but in about 1800, land could be sold or given to someone else. James Kilbourne would have been one of the speculators Poling spoke about in his recent presentation at the Powell-Liberty Historical Society.

When Richard Converse and his wife, Betty, visited the Powell Liberty Historical Society in late September, they had the opportunity to meet another descendent of Seth Case. Eleanor Hawk, a founding member of the society, lives on land which has been in her family for nearly 200 years.

In rereading a July e-mail from Richard, I see him express feelings of satisfaction. "Today, I finally figured out how I am related to a Case who was a member of the Union Company." This is what searching for your roots is all about. There are so many pieces to the puzzle, and little accomplishments are exciting.

Though Richard is also focusing on a marriage that united the Williams and Case families (George M. Williams married Sarah E. Case of Liberty Township in 1870), the day he visited he wanted to know about John M. Williams.

Eleanor Hawk, Marge Bennett, and I were pleased we could tell him that John's home is still standing. We know it as the home of Craig Askins, now deceased. We told him about the Bovee School located on the property that is now owned by The Columbus Zoo. We showed

OLD HOUSE HAS CHURCH, NEIGHBORS AT ODDS

Wednesday, April 16, 2003
NEWS 01D

By Jane Hawes
FOR THE COLUMBUS DISPATCH

POWELL -- Depending on whom you ask, the stately white wood-frame house perched on the city's eastern edge is either an icon or an obstacle.

Its continued existence depends on whose definition prevails.

The Titus Case house sits along W. Powell Road, surrounded by upscale new subdivisions. Its owner, the Powell United Methodist Church, lies just to the west. Church officials plan to demolish the structure to accommodate an expansion.

The dispute has pitted the church against preservationists and homeowners, and it has raised the threat of a federal religious-freedom law that trumps local zoning ordinances.

"There is historic significance, and (the house) is a landmark," said local historian Judi Brozek.

The church's pastor disagrees. The Rev. Marcus Atha points out that, although the core of the house was built in the 1830s by pioneer settler Titus Case, the original structure was encapsulated in the 1940s by two additions.

The 1,100-member church, which Atha said has been adding more than 100 members a year for the past four years, wants to expand its current building size by about 63 percent, erect a 60-foot-tall bell tower and add 80 parking spaces on its 7.6-acre site.

In late February, the city's zoning commission approved the preliminary construction plans. The church will return to the commission with final drawings within six months. The City Council would then have to approve the plans.

In the meantime, nearby residents are mobilized against the expansion with yard signs and a Web site.

"The church is trying to grow beyond what it knew the property could support," said Deer Run Homeowners Association leader Gregg Davis. The Deer Run subdivision adjoins the church's land.

"This (conflict) is partly about asphalt and about getting rid of landmarks," Davis said, "but it's also about communities maintaining zoning control."

Local zoning codes may have to take a back seat to federal law, however. The 3-year-old Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act gave religious organizations more say over how they use their land. Local governments may intervene only if they can prove a compelling reason for doing so.

Autumn Rierson, a lawyer with the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Washington, said the Powell situation is precisely the kind of conflict her organization predicted.

"It has intimidated a lot of local governments because they don't want to get involved in lawsuits," Rierson said.

The Titus Case house is not in Powell's historic district, but it does lie within the community's Olentangy Heritage Corridor Scenic Byway, Brozek said.

"That means the community is charged with maintaining the scenic, cultural and historic character of the area," she said.

Tom Wolf of the Ohio Historic Preservation Office said that architectural integrity is not the only factor for determining historic significance. "Association with an individual can be a factor, too," Wolf said. "But the key question a lot of times is if the individual would recognize it (the structure) if he came back today."

According to state records, no owner of the property has ever applied for inclusion on the National Register for Historic Places.

Powell Development Director David Betz, who also is president of the Powell-Liberty Historical Society, recently prepared an alternative proposal that would spare the house and add parking around it. He said he did so in response to community concerns and not because he believes the house has historic value.

There were no takers when the church offered the house to anyone who would move it.

Atha said the church's building committee has seen the new plans but is not inclined to make revisions.

"Community relations are of utmost importance," Atha said. "But people, our ministry, are much more important to us than nonhistorical bricks and mortar."

Saving a Piece of History

If the Orange Road bridge over the Olentangy River is replaced, Delaware County will lose a piece of history.

Hoping to preserve that history, West Orange Road resident Judi Brozek has made it her mission to get the bridge added to the National Register of Historic Places. That would not keep the bridge from being torn down or altered, but Brozek said it would increase the chances of moving it or at least having it remembered.

During her research to support the National Register nomination, Brozek discovered that the bridge, built in 1898, is believed to be the only bridge within a 35-mile area of Central Ohio unharmed by a 1913 flood. From about 10 miles north of Delaware to the confluence of the Olentangy and Scioto rivers in Columbus, 22 other bridges were damaged or destroyed by flood waters.

The bridge is also unusual because it apparently is one of only two surviving Pratt through-truss bridges built by the Toledo

Bridge Co. Through-truss bridges were prevalent in Ohio in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, according to Brozek's research.

A 1983 survey by the Ohio Department of Transportation counted 510 Pratt through-truss bridges in the state, but this year's count only showed 168 remaining.

Brozek said the bridge is in remarkably good condition for its age. When Ohio Historic Bridge Association President David Simmons visited it recently, Brozek said, "He was... blown away by the condition of the bridge."

Research on the Orange Road bridge is not Brozek's first foray into local history. She was also involved in efforts to save the Gooding Tavern in Orange Township and she is writing a book about the Olentangy River Valley.

Her application to the National Register has been submitted and Brozek said it will be reviewed by a state committee and then passed on to a United States Park Service committee. She hopes that endorsements from the Liberty Township trustees and the Ohio Historic Bridge Association will carry some weight.

If Brozek's effort is successful, the bridge will probably receive a plaque designating it as historic.

While the historic status may not save the bridge, Brozek said it will ensure the bridge is documented and its place in county history preserved.

A Taste of the Holidays

Christmas and candy go hand-in-hand, and to sweeten your holiday season, we've included a wonderful fudge recipe that's worth every ounce of effort. (Reprinted with permission from Fern Glaze.)

Minnie's Milk Chocolate Fudge

In a medium saucepan, combine one 5 to 10 oz. jar of marshmallow cream, 1 ½ cups sugar, 2/3 cup evaporated milk, 1/4 cup of butter or margarine, and 1/4 tsp. salt. Bring to a full boil, stirring constantly, over moderate heat and continue boiling for 5 minutes.

Remove from heat, and add 1 cup of semi-sweet chocolate chips and 1 cup of milk chocolate chips, stirring until melted. Stir in ½ cup of chopped nuts and a tsp. of vanilla. Pour into a greased 8-inch square pan, and chill until firm. This recipe makes approximately 2 1/4 pounds, which may be just what you add to your waistline after finishing this decadent chocolate candy!

Subject: [CASE mail list] Case: CT>VT(abt 1788)>OH (abt 1820)

My descent is:

John Case and Sarah Spencer
Joseph Case and Anna Eno
Joseph Case and Hannah Humphrey
Benajah Case and Lydia Woodruff
Luther Case and Chloe Mariah Sisson
Giles S. Case and Clarissa McAboy
Lutilla Case and Oscar Chase
Clara Blanche Chase and Adelbert McCormick
Eva Gertrude McCormick and John Douglass Welsh Living Welsh and Living Melvin and then me: S Edwards

Benajah Case moved his family from CT to Chittenden, VT prior to 1790.

Luther first married Tryphena Parmalee in CT. After her death he moved west to Ohio, settling in Gallia/Meigs County area. He married Chloe Sisson, they had 3 children: Giles, Henry (died in childhood) and Lucy (married Mr. Berry in 1850 - they moved west). Luther died in 1829 and is buried in the Pine Street Cemetery; Gallipolis, OH.

Giles married Clarissa, they had one child, Lutilla before he drowned in the Ohio River in 1848. He is buried next to his father. It is possible that a 2nd daughter was born shortly after his death, but died in infancy.

Lutilla (Tillie) married Oscar Chase. They had 3 children: Clara Blanche, Truman Judd, and Clarance M. All of this family remained in Meigs County, OH and (with the exception of Clara Blanche, are buried in Miles Cemetery, Rutland, OH. Clara is buried in Wells Cemetery, Scipio Township, Meigs County, OH.

Maybe some clues in Hartford, CT records since that's where the early CASE's originate from, or at least spent some time. They (sons of William - including John Trustin CASE, father of Richard) landed at Ipswich, MA (William died at sea) in 1635. Do you want more on these folks? If so, I'm glad to share!

Hope all this is helpful in some way!
